

Covid-19 Release Statement

Our mission is to make working together safely, quickly, and to a high standard, as easy as possible.

In these unprecedented times, we know how being able to access the right information, and collaborate with your team remotely, is more important than ever.

That is why we have decided to release our trail-blazing quality management software ahead of schedule, and free to use, for everyone - from laboratories working hard to solve the current crisis, to builders trying to get back on their feet and quickly adapt to a new way of working.

Quality is what we are about, so we have given a lot of thought to how we can help without compromise.

Releasing ahead of schedule means we have implemented and tested all the key features to ensure this product is fit for purpose. All essential documents have been reviewed and approved but we are continuing to complete other documentation in parallel with this release.

As usual, our product improvement process is ongoing, and your feedback is greatly appreciated.

Register for free at CytoCentral.com

For all enquiries about CytoCentral email contact@cytocentral.com

Tony Burpee

CEO

Applied Cytometry